After years of traveling the globe, sold out, cutting edge, electro-dub performances... sonic alchemists Lucent Dossier are excited to reveal their new touring show.

Introducing original electronic music, integrated live video mapping, flying aerial, custom made apparatuses and spell binding fire performances (when permissible). The show features the music from the EP "Gateway", performed at Coachella, Lightning In a Bottle, Desert Rocks Music Festival among other amazing private and public events worldwide.

Diving into the future with their sacred journey beyond the now. The group is transforming the stage experience into a dream like world creating a unique interaction between music, performance and audience.

The original electronic, dubstep, eastern-ceremonial DJ set is filled with epic beats, sub-bass frequencies, futuristic synths and tribal drums generating an incredible connection between sound. The performance of skilled cirque style acts mixed with wild story telling will fill the audience with imagination.

Is Lucent Dossier the Future of Los Angeles Nightlife?

I think I stumbled onto something big. Except I'm two years late. And it's so esoteric there's a good chance you've never heard of it. It starts off with a flyer. Once you're committed, you get an e-mail with a street address. Once at the address, a shuttle picks you up and takes you to a warehouse space in downtown LA. For the rest of the night, you're exposed to a wild event full of freaks, hippies, goths, and everything in between dancing, socializing, and engaging in a number of cabaret/dance/aerial performances. There's a lot of make-up and costumes, wigs and props. It's a twisted experience with a nod to the Victorian era and Burning Man. It's Marie Antoinette gone wrong, Cirque Du Soleil on acid, but also the best thing that ever happened to L.A. nightlife. As producer/performer Dayna Riesgo likes to call it: "It's a fully immersive experience where vaudeville meets the future dressed as a Victorian Mad Max warrior." Enter: Lucent Dossier.

Lucent Dossier has been around for almost ten years, producing stage performances of the cabaret variety, traveling around the world, and even entertaining the thousands at Burning Man every year with trippy stylings and, sure, a pinch of crazy. They put together their first large-scale Experience event as an underground party two years ago. It was so successful that they threw another one only two months later, which was busted by the cops. With a proper license, they unfurled their world once again this past weekend. Pre-sale tickets to the show sold out within hours with a maximum occupancy of 470, so they tacked on an extra night, which also sold out. So it only begged the question:

"Lucent Dossier the future of Los Angeles Nightlife?... There [is] something interesting here, something that [feels] future forward and not relying on the past in a gimmicky sort of way. Lucent Dossier [is] an idea, a statement, a movement."

- BLACKBOOK MAGAZINE

"Lucent Dossier in New York City was a flawless, wonderful, interactive experience. You do not want to miss this show."

- THE EXAMINER, NEW YORK

"Lucent Dossier Experience is what happens when the gloves come off, the thinking is taken way outside of the box, and limitations are shattered."

- METROMIX

"Thank you for the most amazing experience. You are the most extraordinary and talented people on the planet."

- LISA GREGORIAN, WARNER BROS. EVP & CHIEF MARKETING OFFICER

WHERE & WHEN L.A. Convention Center, after the show.

THE VIBE The turn-of-the-century European opera theme features living statues and "every red rose in town," says event producer Mary Micucci.

THE CROWD A mix of winners, presenters and NARAS members.

THE FOOD Here's a taste: Wolfgang Puck's rosemary olive-oil-rubbed flat migration and sea bass wrapped in banana leaves. Plus, try the "Sweet Escape," a mango puree and vodka concoction named for Gwen Stefani's Grammy-nominated song—available at all 25 bars.

WHY GO? For performances by Cyndi Lauper and Natasha Bedingfield.

GRAMMY'S SALUTE TO INDUSTRY ICONS

WHERE & WHEN In a separate room at the L.A. Convention Center, after the show. WHO An invitation-only crowd will listen to Motown Records' soulful bluesy sounds.

"...A post apocalyptic world inspired by jungle beats and animalistic moves."

- COACHELLA MUSIC & ART FESTIVAL

"A burst of energy and sexual tension"

- SPIN MAGAZINE

"The most amazing artistic landscape that I have ever witnessed first hand. I can say no more, see them if you can, it changed the way that I will see art from here on out."

- GLIDE MAGAZINE

PRESS

"At a Lucent Dossier show you experience a world that doesn't exist, a place where the future and the past happen simultaneously, as if under some metaphorical big top in a David Lynch dream sequence."

- LA WEEKLY PEOPLE EDITION

"Imagine if Cirque du Soleil embraced an underworld where abundant sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll reigned."

- LOS ANGELES TIMES

"The best I can do to describe Lucent Dossier is to say if all of the paintings of Dali came to life..."

- HUFFINGTON POST

"The Lucent Dossier Experience is unlike any other night of entertainment. It is very much theatre, but also part concert, acrobats, circus, dance performance, and opera. It's a blend of all these things, but a truly unique experience. The music is hot, the costumes are elaborate, and the energy is electric... I cannot wait to see where Lucent Dossier Experience pops up next."

- LAIST.COM

"Lucent Dossier is spinning a dream. Spin that web around us, too."

- NBC NEWS

"Bob Dylan left us disillusioned, but Lucent Dossier, with their acrobatic performances, more than made up for it. Not even Rage Against The Machine, who had the arena of the main stage jumping on Thursday, got close to producing the collective hypnosis achieved by the "vaudeville cirque" from Los Angeles."

World-renowned, critically acclaimed Lucent Dossier is a live performance experience birthed in the heart of the LA underground art and music scene. Using original music, performance, imagery, projection, costumes and style of performance, they have captured the hearts and minds of their diverse audiences. From their explosive beginnings to performing, touring and/or sharing the stage with icons such as the Black Eyed Peas, Beats Antique, Motley Crue, Panic! at the Disco, The Flaming Lips, David Guetta, The Crystal Method, Christina Aguilera and more... Lucent Dossier has been recognized as one of the unstoppable pioneers of an artistic revolution sweeping the globe. Their unique fashion, wild and completely innovative style of performance can be seen interwoven in the hip cultural landscape that is now enchanting mainstream America and the world.

Lucent Dossier's spellbinding performances, Haute Couture costuming, and avant garde concepts have won them recurring praise for their shows at Coachella (7 consecutive years), the Grammy Celebration (3 years), and Electric Picnic Festival in Ireland (5 years). Their year long, SOLD-OUT weekly residency in LA brought them an almost cult like following with fans lining up around the block to experience the ground breaking event. Superstars such as Johnny Depp, Scarlett Johansson, Ringo Starr, Lindsay Lohan, Calvin Klein, Paris Hilton, Jessica Biel and more arrived on a weekly basis. They have been featured on networks including BRAVO, VH1, MTV, Telemundo, on shows such as Top Chef, The Kardashians, Paris Hilton's My New BFF, SCREAM Awards and more and have been hired by Warner Brothers and Universal Studios, Hollywood. They have spun magic performing for and/or with Dr. Dre, Scooter Braun (Justin Bieber), Nikki Sixx (Motley Crue), Wes Borland (Limp Bizkit), Joe Walsh (The Eagles), Elon Musk (Tesla Motors, SpaceX) and more. They have been photographed by Steven Meisel for VOGUE and praised in SPIN, KERRANG!, Washington Post, NBC News, Los Angeles Times, The Huffington Post and more. They have recently done a series of SOLD OUT headlining events at the oldest surviving Orpheum theatre in America and newly renovated Palace Theater on Broadway in Downtown Los Angeles. They opened their new show the Lucent Encounter in New York City's Time Square on October 27th, 2012 to a SOLD-OUT crowd of close to 3000 people dancing into the night. All 5 NYC shows played to a SOLD-OUT crowd.

On December 21, 2012 Lucent Dossier released their highly anticipated EP debut entitled GATEWAY and are now preparing for their summer tour 2013.
